From The Minister

A Covenantal Faith

Distinctive and foundational to American Unitarianism is the notion of covenant. It started in 1639 when some 30 English families emigrated to Dedham with land grants in hand and religious freedom on their minds.

June 2 – “We Still Do” with Rev. Kathy

UUFBR affirms the rights of every person to live free from discrimination and persecution based on who they are or who they love. The worship service, which starts at 10:30, will celebrate Marriage Equality and hold up the spiritual as well as ethical qualities of life which the act of marriage creates. Then at 11:30 am, Rev. Kathy will officiate vow renewals for several couples. This open and inclusive event encourages all couples, regardless of their background, to join in the celebration of love and unity before the beloved community. Family and friends are invited to join in witness. A celebratory reception will follow at noon.

June 9 – “Occupy Holy Ground” – Rev. Kathy

Felix Adler said, “The place where we meet to seek the highest is holy ground.” Do we occupy holy ground at our Fellowship? What is the “highest” that we seek in our congregational life together? Rev. Kathy will explore what “holy” might mean for us in aspiration and practice.

June 16 – “The Juneteenth Celebration: What it Does and Doesn't Mean for ALL of Us” Rev. Guy Sanders, guest speaker

Recently, the United States government decided to make a national holiday out of a celebration that had been taking place within a large segment of the Black community for many decades, called Juneteenth. There are many interpretations of what the holiday is, and what it isn't. Brother Guy Sanders will explore this subject with us and discuss the meanings behind the Juneteenth celebration and what that celebration can mean to us all.

June 23 – “Litha: Celebrating Summer Solstice” presented by UUFBR Brace of CUUPS Study Group

This service will honor yet another season's change. The days have been waxing long but now the daylight hours begin to slowly wane as summer peaks, as seeds turn to stalks, and blossoms to fruit.

Note: This service will be followed by a luncheon at noon. At 1:00 pm, all are invited back into the Sanctuary and on Zoom for livestreaming of the General Assembly Sunday Worship Service

June 30 – “Staking Cognitive Liberty as a Basic Human Right” Ron Roth

Darwin's Edge: The Debate Continues!

Join us this Sunday as the characters from our thought-provoking Darwin's Edge series return for an interactive play exploring the ever-evolving intersection of faith, science, and brain/computer interface.

Rev. Peter Gilman, Michael Carmody, and Sarina Rao are back, joined by new voices to further the conversation. You'll have the opportunity to step into the roles of passionate protestors, ardent supporters, and inquisitive journalists, shaping the narrative and adding your voice to the discussion.

Don't miss this unique chance to engage with the complex questions raised by AI and BCI's rapid advancement and its impact on our understanding of faith, ethics, and what it means to be human.

Share-The-Plate seeking suggestions and members!

In December 2006, we began sharing our Sunday Collection Plate with the wider community in a Share-The-Plate program. After starting this program, contributions to the plate doubled. Half of each collection helps to pay the bills at UUFBR, and the other half goes to the Share-the-Plate Fund. When the Fund reaches $1000, that $1000 is given to a nonprofit organization.

All recipients of this program are nonprofits suggested by UUFBR members; often these members are active participants with the particular organization.

As a UUFBR member, if you would like to suggest an organization to be a recipient of Share-The-Plate contributions, please click on the following link for a PDF form that can be printed, completed, and returned to any Community Service Team member or the UUFBR office – admin@uufbr.org (561) 482-2001:

Share-The-Plate Suggestion Form \(PDF\)

It is important to note that the ministries and work of UUFBR are primarily funded through annual pledges made by our members and pledging friends. We conduct a once-a-year pledge drive in the winter and new members pledge throughout the year.

If you're interested in joining our Share-The-Plate team, please reach out to Jennifer Ligeti (561) 239 – 1662 or NiffLig@gmail.com. We'd love to have you! Currently, Bett Willett and Susan Dubbin serve on this team with Jennifer.

First, a quick background for those who may not know it. I've been on the Board for the last 3 months and almost the entire time, the board has been consumed by the Article II petition. The vote on that petition happened two days ago on May 19 and hopefully, all parties got a little bit of win. But all parties also suffered a lot of pain and anguish and many continue to feel that pain. We need to heal the pain and rebuild our Beloved Community.

There are three approaches in my mind on how to move forward.

First, we should have some time to reconnect with each other – we can do that in small groups, we can do that in informal settings and we can find formal ways and workshops to rebuild trust in our fellowship.

Second, we should redouble our efforts on understanding what the fellowship wants to be as it looks ahead for the next 5 years. What do we see for ourselves? How do we want to relate to each other? How do we want to be of service to the wider community? This will allow us to see the path forward and move along that path with renewed vigor.

Lastly, we should focus on renewing our commitment to Unitarian Universalism with acts of Love, Peace, Harmony, and Service - all mentioned in our covenant. The recent initiatives of participating in Palm Beach Pride in March and the Outreach team's idea for a "Vow renewal" ceremony during Pride month are great examples. The ceremony will be held on June 2 at 11:30 AM and allows us to reaffirm our inclusive and welcoming values, providing a moment of romance and recommitment as UUFBR recognizes Pride Month.

I hope all of you will join in whichever of the ideas above resonate the most with you. And if you have others, please reach out to Claire and me by emailing copresidents@uufbr.org.

Reverend Kathryn Tew Rickey

Upon arrival, there was much to do in terms of establishing homes, farms, and livelihoods out of the wilderness. But once established, these Puritans turned first not to organizing a church but to their relationship with their neighbors. Thus, for one year the Dedham folks met in one another's homes weekly to get to know each other's minds and hearts.

The Dedham folks ensured right relationship with one another before deciding how to do church together. In tandem with other Calvinists of New England the Cambridge Platform of 1648 was forged. The document lays out the structure and governance of the free church as free from clerical hierarchy and forced doctrine. It put forth that mission and purpose are determined from the bottom up and effected through a representational democracy whereby ruling elders and deacons were elected by the congregation and the minister called from among them. Each congregation supported itself financially and addressed its own conflicts and problems. Sometimes, however, a neighboring congregation was called in to help. Does this structure of church governance that was adopted nearly 400 years ago sound familiar?

The First Church of Dedham was founded on covenant rather than creed. The Cambridge Platform was itself a form of covenant for New England churches of the time. Covenant means promise. The promise between the people of New England churches was to be in right relationship as together they explored what their Calvinist theology meant for them in a strange new land. A peaceable community was essential to that exploration and covenant was how they achieved it.

By the end of the 19th Century, Unitarians became distinct from their Calvinist beginnings. However, in 1961 when the Unitarians and Universalists merged, the covenantal model of the congregationalist church remained. The covenant, congregation to congregation, was as it is now, instituted in Article II of the UUA bylaws. Today, each UU congregation still operates on its own and most have covenants made manifest in each congregation's mission, bylaws, and relationship.

We know that congregations change over time not only because of the outside influences of society and culture but also because of generational changes and changes in turnover of the membership. Therefore, it is best practice for a congregation to review its mission, bylaws, and relational covenants at least every 10 years. At the UUA level, the bylaws call for a review every 15 years of the covenant expressed in Article II. In this Fellowship, the mission statement has not been modified since 2001. At the UUA level, Article II has not changed from its expression of the Seven Principles and Six Sources in 40 years.

As we might imagine, much has changed in our world in the last 20 years and even more so in the last 40 years. Even though it is difficult to face changes in the institutions that function as anchor points in our lives, we must ask ourselves, are the promises we make to one another still relevant in our changing world? Do our congregational covenants, the promises we make to one another reflect what and who we are in the present? This Fellowship has three forms of covenant: aspiration, mission, and purpose. Please see these as they appear in the text box below.

As you read our covenants, what are your thoughts on the continuing relevance of them in terms of how we are living out our values now and how we are in relationship with one another? Is it reasonable to expect that such guiding documents would not change over time? If that were the case at the Associational level, we would still be Calvinists.

In a free and pluralistic faith, covenant is the glue that holds our beloved community together. Covenant is our promise to walk together in all our diversity of belief, custom, culture, identity, age, stage, and walk of life. Covenant is above all about being in respectful, equitable, peaceful, and loving relationship with one another. Covenant calls for true interdependence which seeks the best possible outcome for the community as a whole. A religion based on covenant rather than creed is challenging to live into in times of conflict and as individuals because a covenantal faith sometimes calls us to forgo some of our self-interest. Yet the fruits of beloved community are sweet and, in my view, worth it. May we all seek the fruits of Beloved Community.

THE UNITARIAN UNIVERSALIST FELLOWSHIP OF BOCA RATON COVENANTS

ASPIRATION:

Love is the doctrine of this faith.
The quest for truth, its sacrament
And service, its prayer.
To dwell together in peace.
To seek the truth in love.
To the end that all shall grow into harmony.
Thus, do we covenant with one another.

MISSION:

To provide intellectual, emotional and spiritual growth experiences for all ages and stages of life in a free and liberal religious setting.

STRATEGIES FOR ACHIEVING MISSION:

By preserving and promoting UU principles and purposes within the Fellowship and through outreach into the surrounding community;
By deepening our interdependent connections to the greater UUA community;
By providing quality life-spanning Religious Education;
By promoting and enhancing a nurturing, caring, inclusive and responsive community;
By using music, art and ceremony to promote joy; and to celebrate diversity, community and friendship.

PURPOSE AS STATED IN UUFBR BYLAWS:

It is the purpose of the Fellowship:
To serve the social and spiritual needs of its members,
To Provide a forum for the exploration of religious ideas and ethical values,
To offer a program of religious education for children and adults,
To speak out and act on social and moral issues, and
To further the cause of liberal religion, particularly in Boca Raton and neighboring communities.
